Personality & Nature

With Leo rising, your outer personality is proud, generous, dignified and naturally commanding. Leo is a fire sign of fixed quality ruled by Sun, which sets the essential tone of your temperament, the way you meet the world and the broad direction of your life.

The lord of your Ascendant, Sun, is placed in the 12th house of loss, expenditure and liberation. This shows that your vitality and life-path are closely tied to expenditure, foreign lands, isolation, spirituality, sleep, and ultimate liberation. The planet is in a neutral dignity here, giving mixed but workable results shaped by the rest of the chart.

Your Moon — the seat of the mind and emotions — is in Taurus, making your inner nature steady, patient, sensual and security-loving. This is your true rashi and shapes how you feel, react and seek comfort. Born under the nakshatra Rohini (deity Brahma the creator, symbol a chariot or ox-cart), you carry its qualities of beauty, fertility, charm, material growth and artistic taste.

Your Sun is in Cancer, lending your core identity and willpower an emotional, nurturing, intuitive and home-loving character. Where the Moon shows the heart and the Ascendant the outer self, the Sun reveals the soul's steady purpose.

Sun in Cancer, 12th house. Sun represents your soul, vitality, ego and sense of authority, and signifies father, government, status, health and the self. Placed in Cancer — a water sign of movable quality ruled by Moon — its energy expresses through an emotional, nurturing, intuitive and home-loving temperament. Falling in your 12th house of loss, expenditure and liberation, Sun directs this force toward expenditure, foreign lands, isolation, spirituality, sleep, and ultimate liberation. The planet is in a neutral dignity here, giving mixed but workable results shaped by the rest of the chart. It occupies the nakshatra Ashlesha (pada 4, deity the Nagas (serpents)), colouring its results with penetrating insight, hypnotic charm, cunning and intuition. Here Sun is conjunct Jupiter (harmoniously), Venus (harmoniously), Ketu (with friction), so their energies blend and modify one another in this house. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 6th house, extending its influence there. In turn it receives the aspect of Mars, whose influence further shapes these matters. Used consciously, this placement lets you carry natural authority, radiate confidence.

In daily life, Sun weaves father, government, status, health and the self into your 12th-house affairs. Being under stress here, it can bring unnecessary expenses, periods of isolation or disturbed sleep, eased by spiritual practice; with conscious effort, maturity and the remedies given later in this report, these difficulties ease markedly.

Moon in Taurus, 10th house. Moon represents your mind, emotions, instincts and inner comfort, and signifies mother, the public, emotional well-being and the home. Placed in Taurus — an earth sign of fixed quality ruled by Venus — its energy expresses through a steady, patient, sensual and security-loving temperament. Falling in your 10th house of career, status and action, Moon directs this force toward career, profession, public status, reputation, authority and your life's work. Here the planet is exalted — at its absolute strongest — and bestows its finest, most elevated results in full measure. It occupies the nakshatra Rohini (pada 3, deity Brahma the creator), colouring its results with beauty, fertility, charm, material growth and artistic taste. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 4th house, extending its influence there. On the whole, well placed, you enjoy emotional balance, a caring nature, public goodwill and a fertile imagination.

In daily life, Moon weaves mother, the public, emotional well-being and the home into your 10th-house affairs. Being strong here, it actively blesses these matters, so you can look forward to career success, public status, authority and recognition for your work, and at your best you enjoy emotional balance, a caring nature, public goodwill and a fertile imagination.

Mars in Aries, 9th house. Mars represents your energy, courage, drive and capacity for action, and signifies siblings, land and property, competition and courage. Placed in Aries — a fire sign of movable quality ruled by Mars — its energy expresses through a bold, pioneering, energetic and independent temperament. Falling in your 9th house of fortune, dharma and higher wisdom, Mars directs this force toward fortune and grace, father, guru, religion, higher learning, long journeys and ethics. In its own sign the planet is comfortable and strong, protecting and steadily supporting these matters. It occupies the nakshatra Kritika (pada 1, deity Agni (fire)), colouring its results with sharpness, purifying drive, ambition and a cutting honesty. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 12th, 3rd, 4th houses, extending its influence there. On the whole, well placed, you act with courage and decisiveness, defend what is yours and excel in competition, sports, engineering or the forces.

In daily life, Mars weaves siblings, land and property, competition and courage into your 9th-house affairs. Being strong here, it actively blesses these matters, so you can look forward to great fortune, the blessings of teachers and elders, higher learning and a dharmic life, and at your best you act with courage and decisiveness, defend what is yours and excel in competition, sports, engineering or the forces.

Mercury in Leo, 1st house. Mercury represents your intellect, communication and analytical power, and signifies education, business, writing, trade and friends. Placed in Leo — a fire sign of fixed quality ruled by Sun — its energy expresses through a proud, generous, dignified and naturally commanding temperament. Falling in your 1st house of self, body and vitality, Mercury directs this force toward your physical body, appearance, temperament, health and the overall direction of life. The planet is in a neutral dignity here, giving mixed but workable results shaped by the rest of the chart. It occupies the nakshatra Purva Phalguni (pada 4, deity Bhaga (delight)), colouring its results with pleasure, generosity, creativity and love of comfort. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 7th house, extending its influence there. Used consciously, this placement lets you think quickly, speak.

In daily life, Mercury weaves education, business, writing, trade and friends into your 1st-house affairs. With balanced strength, you experience a blend — robust health, a confident, well-regarded personality alongside the occasional need to manage ups and downs in health.

Jupiter in Cancer, 12th house. Jupiter represents your wisdom, faith, expansion and good fortune, and signifies children, wealth, the teacher (guru), dharma and fortune. Placed in Cancer — a water sign of movable quality ruled by Moon — its energy expresses through an emotional, nurturing, intuitive and home-loving temperament. Falling in your 12th house of loss, expenditure and liberation, Jupiter directs this force toward expenditure, foreign lands, isolation, spirituality, sleep, and ultimate liberation. Here the planet is exalted — at its absolute strongest — and bestows its finest, most elevated results in full measure. It occupies the nakshatra Pushya (pada 1, deity Brihaspati (the guru)), colouring its results with nourishment, wisdom, devotion and protective care. Here Jupiter is conjunct Sun (with friction), Venus (harmoniously), Ketu (with friction), so their energies blend and modify one another in this house. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 4th, 6th, 8th houses, extending its influence there. In turn it receives the aspect of Mars, whose influence further shapes these matters. On the whole, well placed, you are blessed with wisdom, ethics, prosperity, respected teachers and the protection of grace.

In daily life, Jupiter weaves children, wealth, the teacher (guru), dharma and fortune into your 12th-house affairs. Being strong here, it actively blesses these matters, so you can look forward to spiritual growth, gains from foreign lands, wise expenditure and eventual liberation, and at your best you are blessed with wisdom, ethics, prosperity, respected teachers and the protection of grace.

Venus in Cancer, 12th house. Venus represents your capacity for love, beauty, pleasure and refinement, and signifies marriage and spouse, luxury, vehicles, art and comforts. Placed in Cancer — a water sign of movable quality ruled by Moon — its energy expresses through an emotional, nurturing, intuitive and home-loving temperament. Falling in your 12th house of loss, expenditure and liberation, Venus directs this force toward expenditure, foreign lands, isolation, spirituality, sleep, and ultimate liberation. The planet is in a neutral dignity here, giving mixed but workable results shaped by the rest of the chart. It occupies the nakshatra Pushya (pada 2, deity Brihaspati (the guru)), colouring its results with nourishment, wisdom, devotion and protective care. Here Venus is conjunct Sun (with friction), Jupiter (harmoniously), Ketu (with friction), so their energies blend and modify one another in this house.

By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 6th house, extending its influence there. In turn it receives the aspect of Mars, whose influence further shapes these matters. Used consciously, this placement lets you attract love, beauty.

In daily life, Venus weaves marriage and spouse, luxury, vehicles, art and comforts into your 12th-house affairs. Being under stress here, it can bring unnecessary expenses, periods of isolation or disturbed sleep, eased by spiritual practice; with conscious effort, maturity and the remedies given later in this report, these difficulties ease markedly.

Saturn in Sagittarius, 5th house. Saturn represents your discipline, endurance, responsibility and sense of justice, and signifies longevity, career through effort, the masses and hard labour. Placed in Sagittarius — a fire sign of dual quality ruled by Jupiter — its energy expresses through an optimistic, philosophical, freedom-loving and ethical temperament. Falling in your 5th house of intelligence, children and creativity, Saturn directs this force toward children, intelligence, creativity, romance, speculation and past-life merit. The planet is in a neutral dignity here, giving mixed but workable results shaped by the rest of the chart. It occupies the nakshatra Purva Ashadha (pada 4, deity Apas (the waters)), colouring its results with invincibility, conviction, influence and proud ambition. Saturn is retrograde (vakri), turning its energy inward and intensifying its results, often along an unconventional path. By Vedic aspect (drishti) it casts its gaze on the 7th, 11th, 2nd houses, extending its influence there. Used consciously, this placement lets you sustained effort brings lasting, hard-won success, authority over many.

In daily life, Saturn weaves longevity, career through effort, the masses and hard labour into your 5th-house affairs. With balanced strength, you experience a blend — a fine intelligence, creative success, happiness through children alongside the occasional need to manage delays.

Rahu in Capricorn, 6th house. Rahu represents your worldly desire, ambition and unconventional drive, and signifies material cravings, foreign lands, technology and the unorthodox. Placed in Capricorn — an earth sign of movable quality ruled by Saturn — its energy expresses through an ambitious, disciplined, responsible and enduring temperament. Falling in your 6th house of health, enemies and service, Rahu directs this force toward health and disease, enemies and competition, debts, service, daily work and discipline. Ketu Mahadasha (2072–2079)

A period of detachment, introspection and spiritual turning points. Worldly matters may feel uncertain or fall away, while intuition, research and inner growth deepen. It clears the old to make room for a more meaningful path.

In your chart Ketu sits in Cancer in the 12th house. Being under pressure, this period asks for patience, prudence and the remedies in this report; faced consciously, its harder lessons mature into lasting inner strength.

Throughout these years the affairs of moksha, past-life talents, sudden loss and the occult come to the fore, and the 12th-house matters Ketu governs shape your outer circumstances and inner priorities.

Its sub-periods unfold in the order Ketu → Venus → Sun → Moon → Mars → Rahu → Jupiter → Saturn → Mercury, each shifting the emphasis as detailed in the antardasha tables.

Venus Mahadasha (2079–2099)

A period of love, marriage, luxury, art and material comfort. Relationships, beauty, vehicles, creativity and the pleasures of life flourish. It favours partnership and refinement; guard only against over-indulgence.
